When our designer said he wanted to create a boat that didn't actually float on water our reaction was probably similar to yours. But when that designer happens to be Ocke Mannerfelt, a man who has created hulls capable of winning World Offshore Powerboating titles, you tend to let him get on with it. The result is the ground-breaking Sports Cruiser. Incorporating channels that draw air under the hull, the S29 actually rides on a cushion of air. Helping it set new standards in performance, comfort and safety.
